REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE APPROVAL, SALE, INSTALLATION, AND MAINTENANCE OF OIL-BURNERS AND OIL-BURNING EQUIPMENT.

(Pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act.")

INTERPRETATION.

1. In these regulations, unless the context otherwise requires:—

"Anti-siphoning device" means any automatic device designed or used to prevent the siphoning of oil fuel from a storage or supply tank to the burner:

"Commercial oil-burner" means any type of oil-burner where a competent attendant is constantly on duty in the room in which the oil-burner is being operated, and using oil fuel having a flash-point of not less than 150 degrees Fahr:

"Crank-case oil" means any oil that has been used in the base of an internal-combustion engine, or that has been used for the purpose of washing or cleaning, or that has been diluted with a more volatile oil:

"Domestic oil-burner" means any type of oil-burner where an attendant is not constantly on duty in the room in which the oil-burner is being operated, and using oil fuel having a flash-point of not less than 100 degrees Fahr:

"Gravity-tank" means any tank so located that the oil fuel flows therefrom by gravity alone to the oil-burner:

"Officer" means the Fire Marshal, or any person on the staff of the Fire Marshal's office authorized by the Fire Marshal in writing to exercise the powers vested in an officer under these regulations, or any Local Assistant to the Fire Marshal constituted or appointed under section 7 of the "Fire Marshal Act," or any officer appointed by a Municipal Council to exercise the powers vested in an officer under these regulations:

"Oil-burner" means any appliance, fixture, or thing using inflammable liquids for the purpose of generating heat:

"Oil-burning equipment" means all equipment used in connection with an oil-burner, such as tanks, piping, pumps, burners, electrical apparatus, and other accessories used in connection therewith:

"Oil fuel" means any liquid having a flash-point of not less than 100 degrees Fahr.:

"Range oil-burner" means a natural-draught, gravity-feed, vaporizing oil-burner designed for use in stoves, ranges, and heaters other than furnaces:

"Specific gravity" means the ratio of the weight of oil fuel to the weight of the same volume of water, and is recorded as "degrees Baumé":

"Tank" means any form of container used for storing or supplying oil fuel to an oil-burner and includes both above-ground and underground tanks.

SALE, INSTALLATION, AND USE OF OIL-BURNERS AND OIL-BURNING EQUIPMENT.

2. After the first day of August, 1933, no person shall sell, offer for sale, or install any oil-burner or oil-burning equipment unless the same has been approved by the Fire Marshal. No person shall operate or use any oil-burner or oil-burning equipment which is installed after the first day of August, 1933, unless the same has been installed in compliance with these regulations.

3. It shall be the duty of every person, before offering for sale or selling an oil-burner or oil-burning equipment, to file with the Fire Marshal a statement showing the name of the manufacturer and the trade-name thereof, together with a certificate of approval if any has been obtained from an authority acceptable to the Fire Marshal, and any other information the Fire Marshal may require.

4. The Fire Marshal may at his discretion require that any oil-burner or any oil-burning equipment be submitted to the Laboratories of the National Research Council of Canada for approval before his approval is given. In the case of any dispute as to the safety of any oil-burner or oil-burning equipment the decision of the said Laboratories shall be final.

5. No oil-burner or oil-burning equipment shall be installed without first obtaining a permit in writing from an officer. Every application for such permit shall be in writing and shall show the trade-name of the oil-burner or oil-burning equipment and the name and qualification of the person installing it.

6. It shall be the duty of the owner or occupier of every premises where an oil-burner is in use to notify the person supplying oil fuel for use therein of the correct grade of oil fuel for which the burner is approved; and no person shall supply for use in any oil-burner oil fuel of a grade other than that for which the oil-burner has been approved. No person shall supply for use or use any crank-case oil as oil fuel in any oil-burner.

INSTALLATION OF TANKS, PIPING, ETC., FOR COMMERCIAL OIL-BURNERS.

7. (a.) All storage-tanks used in connection with oil-burners shall be buried underground, except as otherwise provided by clause (c) of this regulation, and shall be so buried that the top of the tank is not less than three feet below the surface of the ground. All tanks which are designed for or are used as underground storage for oil fuel shall be made of galvanized steel, open-hearth steel, or wrought iron, and shall have the seams thereof riveted and caulked, braze-welded, or electro-welded in such a manner that the seam-joint shall be mechanically and hydraulically tight. All such tanks shall be made rust-proof by being dipped in or painted with at least one thick coat of asphaltum or other rust-resisting paint.

Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prohibit the use, for the storage of oil fuel having a specific gravity heavier than thirty-five degrees Baumé, of water-proofed reinforced concrete tanks the plans and specifications of which have been submitted to the Fire Marshal for approval and have been approved by him.

The weight of metal used in the construction of metallic tanks for underground storage shall be based upon the following table:—

Capacity in Gallons.	Minimum Thickness of Metal, British Standard Gauge.	Minimum Weight per Square Foot.	Maximum Diameter in Inches	Maximum Length of Cylinder in Feet.
1 to 467	14	3.125	54	10
468 to 917	12	4.375	68	12
918 to 3,333	7	7.50	105	18
3,334 to 10,000	1/4	10.00	132	24
10,001 to 16,667	5/16	12.50	132	30
16,668 to 25,000	3/8	15.00	132	35

(b.) Wherever practicable tanks shall be located underground and not less than four feet from any building. Where this is impracticable the capacity of each tank shall depend on the location of the tank with respect to the adjacent building. If the top of the tank is underground and below the level of the lowest floor, basement, pit, or cellar of the building, it shall be located not less than four feet from the building; and the maximum capacity shall be based upon the following table:—

Distance from Building, Feet.	Capacity, Gallons.
4 to 6 (inclusive)	2,600
7 to 10 (inclusive)	4,000
11 to 20 (inclusive)	10,000
21 to 25 (inclusive)	50,000
26 to 49 (inclusive)	100,000

If the top of the tank is above the lowest floor, basement, pit, or cellar of the building, it shall be located not less than eight feet from the building; and the maximum capacity shall be based upon the following table:—

Distance from Building, Feet.	Capacity, Gallons.
8 to 12 (inclusive)	2,600
13 to 20 (inclusive)	4,000
21 to 40 (inclusive)	10,000
41 to 49 (inclusive)	50,000
50 feet and over	100,000

(c.) Wherever practicable, tanks shall be installed as shown above. When it is impracticable so to install them, they may be installed as follows:—

(1.) Under the building, so buried that there is not less than two feet of earth between the top of the tank and the under-side of the four-inch concrete slab floor of the building. If there is no concrete slab floor, a protecting slab of concrete not less than four inches thick shall extend one foot beyond the tank on all sides.

(2.) Outside or inside the basement of the building, enclosed in a concrete vault having concrete sides of not less than eight inches in thickness placed not less than twelve inches away from all parts of the tank to be enclosed and carried not less than one foot above the tank. The enclosure to be covered by a reinforced-concrete slab not less than six inches in thickness. All spaces around the tank shall be completely filled with sand securely tamped into place. The capacity of the tank so installed shall in no case exceed seven hundred and fifty gallons.

(d.) No tank for the storage of oil fuel shall be covered in or buried before it and all its fittings have been inspected and approved by an officer, and oil fuel shall not be stored therein until a certificate of approval is granted by the said officer.

(e.) No tank for the storage of oil fuel shall be located under any driveway, unless protected by a reinforced-concrete slab or other equivalent method of resisting the downward pressure to which it may from time to time be subjected.

(f.) The piping in connection with every tank shall be done in a neat workmanlike manner. Approved fittings shall be used to connect all piping to the tank. Unions shall be of a self-sealing type or of a type using an insoluble packing. The use of right and left couplings, running threads, and lock-nuts shall not be permitted. All joints shall be painted with a heavy coat of rust-resisting lead paint mixed with glycerine before putting them together. Measurement test-pipes shall be located outside of buildings, otherwise an approved indicating device shall be installed.

The fill-pipe for any tank shall not extend higher above the top of the tank than is necessary for filling purposes. The number of turns or offsets in any fill-pipe shall not exceed in value three right-angle bends.

The top of the fill-pipe shall be covered with an approved cap and the location of fill-pipe shall be subject to the approval of the officer, but in every case shall be located outside the building.

Where more than one tank is used on the same installation there shall be a separate fill-pipe for each tank, and there shall be no interconnection which will permit the flow of oil fuel from one tank to another.

Every tank shall have a galvanized-iron vent-pipe having an internal diameter of not less than the following:—

Capacity of Tank, Gallons.	Diameter of Pipe, Inches.
1 to 3,000.....	1 1/4
3,001 to 10,000.....	1 1/2
10,001 and over.....	2

The vent-pipe shall extend into the tank not more than one inch and shall be installed so that there shall be a general drain-back towards the tank and no trap or sag throughout the length thereof. The upper end of the vent-pipe shall be not less than twelve feet above the ground-level and shall be fitted with a return elbow. The vent-pipe shall not terminate within three feet either way from any window or door.

Where any tank is located so that the top of the tank is above the level of the oil-burner, an approved anti-siphoning device shall be installed in the highest point of the piping. One such device shall be installed for each ten feet or fraction thereof of the difference in level. If more than one is required the anti-siphoning devices shall be connected in series.

In all cases where oil fuel is delivered to oil-burners by means of pumping devices there shall be a return overflow-pipe which in no case shall be less than one-quarter inch greater in internal diameter than the supply-pipe; provided, however, that in the case of vacuum oil-burning equipment the Fire Marshal may in writing waive the installation of the overflow-pipe.

No measuring-gauge or other device which is constructed wholly or partly of glass shall be installed on the pressure side of any oil-fuel pump or on the suction side of any oil-fuel pump below the elevation of the top of the storage or supply tank.

Between the storage-tank and the oil-burner an easily accessible strainer unit shall be installed.

No gravity-tank and no oil-burner to which oil fuel is supplied by gravity-flow shall be installed in any building any part of which is used as an apartment-house, hotel, school, hospital, place of refuge or detention, theatre or other place of public assembly, or in a department store, or in any building built over any tidal water or any navigable stream or lake: Provided that the foregoing provision shall not prohibit the demonstration of an oil-burner in a department store under conditions approved in writing by the Fire Marshal.

All piping connecting any oil-burner with the tank shall be adequately protected from the direct heat of the oil-burner.

All piping from any storage-tank shall be brought out from the top of the tank except the piping for gravity-feed oil-burners.

The installation of the piping in all oil-burning equipment shall be made so that the piping is protected from mechanical injury while also being easily accessible. Underground piping shall be laid on firm ground in a trench in which there is no other piping except piping used to conduct warm water or steam to heat the storage-tank.

(g.) Heating of storage-tanks shall be done by steam or hot-water heaters only, which shall be of substantial construction having all joints steam and oil tight. Heaters shall be provided with pressure relief-valves or by-passed, so that in no case can the temperature be raised above 120 degrees Fahr.

INSTALLATION OF COMMERCIAL OIL-BURNERS.

8. (a.) The burner mechanism shall be so designed that the orifice cannot become enlarged and so that the needle-valve cannot be unscrewed and removed after the oil-burner is in operation.

The burner mechanism shall be mounted securely in such a manner that no weight is taken by the piping or wiring.

An inspection opening not less than two inches in diameter so located as to give a view of the interior of the combustion-chamber shall be provided. Every inspection opening shall have a cover.

The burner mechanism shall be capable of being easily cleaned and adjusted, and shall be so designed that oil leakage shall be at a minimum.

A manually operated shut-off valve shall be located on the oil-fuel feed-line close to the burner mechanism.

(b.) No oil-burner shall be installed in connection with any hot-air furnace, hot-water or steam boiler unless the furnace or boiler is mounted on an incombustible base; or, if on a wooden floor, unless the floor is protected by an incombustible covering not less than twelve inches in thickness, composed of one layer not less than two inches thick of concrete, over which shall be a layer of six-inch hollow tile laid in cement mortar in such a way that the ducts of the tile will form continuous air-spaces from end to end, and a third layer consisting of firebrick laid in fireclay. This floor-covering shall extend beyond the sides and ends of the furnace or boiler a distance of not less than eighteen inches.

(c.) Dampers which entirely close the chimney uptake are prohibited. Damper area shall be carefully determined in each case, but shall not be greater than eighty per centum of the internal cross-sectional area of the uptake.

(d.) The chimney into which the smoke-pipe from any oil-burner feeds shall have sufficient cross-sectional area and be of sufficient height to give adequate draught to ensure the proper operation of the oil-burner. The chimney shall be constructed in conformity with the regulations for the construction of chimneys made pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act."

(e.) No oil-burner shall be used in connection with any heating plant in any public building unless the heating plant is enclosed in accordance with the regulations for furnace chambers made pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act."

INSTALLATION OF TANKS, PIPING, ETC., FOR DOMESTIC OIL-BURNERS.

9. The provisions hereinbefore laid down in Regulation 7 for commercial oil-burners shall apply in the case of domestic oil-burners, together with the following provisions:—

(a.) No gravity-tank from which the oil fuel is fed to any domestic oil-burner shall have a capacity of more than fifty-five gallons. Not more than one such tank shall be connected to any domestic oil-burner.

(b.) No gravity-tank shall be constructed of less than 14-gauge metal (B.S.G.), which shall be either double-galvanized or kept well coated with rust-resisting paint.

(c.) The piping from a gravity-tank to a domestic oil-burner shall have an internal diameter not less than one-quarter inch and not greater than one-half inch. The other piping in connection with gravity-tanks shall be as hereinbefore laid down for underground tanks.

(d.) Every gravity-tank shall be located not less than ten feet from any stove, furnace, boiler, or other heat-radiating device and at a height of not more than thirty-six inches above the level of the oil-burner to which it is attached. The gravity-tank shall be located in the lowest story of the building.

(c.) The stand upon which a gravity-tank is mounted shall be made of galvanized-iron pipe and littings of not less than one inch internal diameter, and shall be securely fastened to the floor, ceiling, and walls or floor and ceiling of the building.

(f.) Oil fuel shall be pumped from the storage-tank to the gravity-tank. The pump shall be so mounted as to prevent siphoning either way.

INSTALLATION OF DOMESTIC OIL-BURNERS.

10. (a.) Gravity-feed oil-burning equipment shall not be installed in any building housing apartments or in any hotel, school, theatre, department store, store, place of amusement, public assembly, or detention.

(b.) Every domestic oil-burner used in connection with any steam, hot-water, or warm-air heating system shall be equipped with an automatic shut-off stopping the flow of oil fuel from the storage or supply tank to the oil-burner in case the flame should go out or oil-flow become too rapid for flame-consumption. It shall also be equipped with an approved limiting device to prevent abnormal temperatures in hot-air furnace ducts, abnormal water temperature in a hot-water furnace, and abnormal steam-pressure in a steam-boiler.

(c.) Every range oil-burner shall bear the approval of the National Research Council of Canada.

(d.) The capacity of the gravity-tank supplying a stove or range oil-burner shall in no case exceed six gallons. The gravity-tank shall be securely and rigidly mounted not less than two feet from the stove or range to which it is attached. In case the gravity-tank is of glass it shall be shielded against accidental breakage by a rigid metal case.

(e.) Domestic oil-burners shall be connected to chimneys which shall comply in every respect with the regulations made pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act," governing the construction of chimneys.

Provincial Secretary.

Provincial Secretary's Office, Victoria, B.C., July 27th, 1933. 3962-jy27

"FIRE MARSHAL ACT."

July 25th, 1933.

HIS HONOUR the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, pursuant to section 36 of the "Fire Marshal Act," has been pleased to approve of the following regulations, to become effective as and from the 1st day of August, 1933:—

REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE CONSTRUCTION, INSTALLATION, AND MAINTENANCE OF CHIMNEYS, FIRE-PLACES, SMOKE-PIPES, AND FURNACE CHAMBERS.

(Pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act.")

INTERPRETATION.

1. In these regulations, unless the context otherwise requires:—

"Brick" includes any common brick, hard-pressed brick, or vitrified brick;

"Common brick" means a brick sufficiently hard-burned or a cement brick sufficiently hard to give a metallic sound when two are struck together, able to withstand a crushing-force of at least one thousand pounds per square inch, and which will not absorb more than twenty-five per cent. of its own weight of water;

"Hard-pressed brick" means a brick sufficiently hard-burned or a cement brick sufficiently hard to withstand a crushing-force of at least four thousand pounds per square inch, and which will not absorb more than twenty per cent. of its own weight of water;

"Vitrified brick" means a brick made of shale hard-burned, able to withstand a crushing-force of at least five thousand pounds per square inch, and which will not absorb more than ten per cent. of its own weight of water:

"Chimney" means any form of masonry or reinforced-concrete structure designed or used for the purpose of carrying off the volatile and gaseous products of combustion of any heating or cooking appliance:

"Furnace chamber" means any masonry, concrete, or slow-burning structure enclosing the heating plant of any public building:

"Masonry" means any form of solid construction composed of bricks or stones laid with lime or cement mortar:

"Officer" means the Fire Marshal, or any person on the staff of the Fire Marshal's office authorized by the Fire Marshal in writing to exercise the powers vested in an officer under these regulations, or any Local Assistant to the Fire Marshal constituted or appointed under section 7 of the "Fire Marshal Act" or any officer appointed by a Municipal Council to exercise the powers vested in an officer under these Regulations:

APPLICATION.

2. These regulations shall apply only in respect of chimneys, fireplaces, smoke-pipes, and furnace chambers constructed or installed after the first day of August, 1933.

CHIMNEYS, FIREPLACES, AND SMOKE-PIPES.

3. No person shall construct a chimney in any building without first obtaining a permit from an officer.

4. Except as provided in this regulation, every chimney shall be built from a solid concrete or masonry foundation and shall extend not less than three feet above the highest point at which it comes in contact with a roof of the building and at least two feet higher than any roof-ridge within twenty feet of the chimney. Every chimney shall be properly capped by having the last three tiers of brick laid with cement mortar. In case the nature of the ground is such that a solid foundation cannot be obtained, an officer may permit, with the consent of the Fire Marshal, a chimney to be placed on a foundation of wood composed of four posts four inches by four inches square securely braced and carried on the floor-joists and capped with a shelf of wood not less than two inches in thickness. Chimneys known as "bracket chimneys" are prohibited. In the case of temporary buildings not to exceed one story in height and of a value not to exceed three hundred dollars, the use of a galvanized-iron chimney of a type commonly known as the "Yukon" chimney may be approved. Plans of this type of chimney shall be furnished by the Fire Marshal on request. The use of what is commonly known as a "roof-jack" or "stove-pipe" chimney is prohibited.

5. Except as provided in the last preceding regulation, every chimney shall be constructed of masonry or reinforced concrete and shall carry its entire weight. No part of the weight of any chimney shall be carried on wood, except as provided in the last preceding regulation.

6. The flue area of chimneys and the thickness of the walls, if of brick masonry, shall be as follows:—

In one-story dwellings, in the case of a chimney having not more than three smoke-pipe openings for domestic cooking and heating stoves, the walls shall be not less than four inches in thickness, and the flue area shall be not less than sixty-four square inches.

In dwellings over one story in height, in the case of a chimney having not more than two smoke-pipe openings, one of which is located in the basement for venting a warm-air or hot-water furnace or low-pressure steam-boiler, the walls shall be not less than four inches in thickness, of brick masonry, together with a tile flue-lining not less than three-quarters of an inch in thickness, and the flue area shall be not less than fifty-six square inches. In the case of all other chimneys the brick walls shall be not less than eight inches in thickness; except that a circular tile flue-lining not less than ten inches in diameter may be used inside a four-inch wall when the voids between the tile lining and the wall are filled with brick and mortar. Tile flue-linings in all cases shall extend continuously from the top of the chimney to not less than twelve inches below the lowest smoke-pipe hole.

The foregoing provisions as to flue area and thickness of walls shall apply in respect of chimneys constructed of reinforced concrete or stone masonry, except that the thickness of walls so prescribed shall be increased, in the case of reinforced-concrete chimneys, by fifty per centum additional thickness, and in the case of stone-masonry chimneys by seventy-five per centum additional thickness.

Division-walls between flues in all chimneys shall be at least four inches in thickness.

7. Chimneys shall, whenever practicable, be perpendicular and in no case shall the total offset be more than 30 degrees from the perpendicular. Corbelling of more than nine inches from the wall shall not be permitted, and no single corbel shall project more than one and one-half inches over the edge of the brick below it.

8. Chimneys occurring in brick walls shall be thoroughly and continuously bonded thereto from the bottom to the top.

9. Except where flues have a terra-cotta or tile lining, the inside of the tubes of masonry chimneys shall have struck joints. Pargeting shall not be permitted. The terra-cotta or tile lining shall be securely set in place in cement mortar as the chimney is built.

10. Clean-outs shall be provided at the bottom of all flues, and in the case of a chimney built under permit pursuant to regulation 4 of these regulations there shall be not less than three layers of brick masonry between the wooden foundation and the clean-out opening, and there shall be not less than sixteen inches between the bottom of the lowest smoke-pipe opening and the clean-out opening. Clean-out openings shall be equipped with covers made of iron which shall project into the opening not less than four inches and shall overlap the brick not less than one inch on all sides.

11. All thimbles for smoke-pipe openings into chimneys shall be located not less than eighteen inches from the ceiling. Where lath and plaster finish is used, brick shall be corbelled out to the face of the studding for not less than six inches all around the thimble and shall be covered with metal lath. Where wood or other inflammable finish is used, it shall be cut back leaving a clearance of not less than eight inches all around the thimble.

12. There shall be at least two inches clearance between every masonry or concrete chimney and any woodwork. The space between such woodwork and the chimney shall be stopped with metal flashing or filled with lime mortar or asbestos at each floor-level.

13. All smoke-pipe openings into any chimney when not in use shall be kept closed with an approved stopper of galvanized iron of not less than 16-gauge, which shall project into the opening not less than four inches and overlap the brick not less than one inch on all sides. Smoke-pipe openings shall enter the sides of chimneys through fireclay thimbles, metal thimbles, or masonry flue-rings. Not more than three smoke-pipe openings shall be permitted into a fifty-six-square-inch flue. Openings shall not be permitted directly opposite each other.

14. Where chimneys pass through the roof they shall be flashed in such a manner that any settling shall not put any weight on the roof, nor shall any settling cause the chimney to support any timber.

15. Every fireplace constructed in a chimney, if of brick, shall have walls of not less than eight inches in thickness including the lining of firebrick or soapstone, which shall be not less than four inches in thickness; and if of reinforced concrete, shall have walls of not less than ten inches in thickness including the lining of firebrick or soapstone as above; and if of stone, shall have walls of not less than twelve inches in thickness including the lining of firebrick or soapstone as above.

16. The breast of the fireplace shall project not more than four inches beyond the foundation upon which it rests.

17. Fireplace hearths shall be supported at one side by solid masonry and shall be of masonry or reinforced-concrete construction extending not less than eighteen inches in front of and not less than twelve inches to each side of the fireplace opening. The combined thickness of the hearth supporting arch shall be not less than twelve inches. Arch-work or a metal bar shall support the masonry over the opening of the fireplace. Wooden centres used in the construction of that part of the supporting arch which is below the hearth of the fireplace inside of the chimney-breast shall be removed when the construction of the arch is completed and before plastering on the under-side.

18. Smoke-pipes connecting portable apparatus such as heaters, stoves, or ranges shall be made of iron of not less than 24-gauge, except where pipes have a vertical or horizontal length of twenty feet or over, when the metal shall be not less than 22-gauge.

19. Smoke-pipes extending vertically or horizontally ten feet or over shall be riveted together in lengths not exceeding ten feet, and these lengths shall be securely fastened together by hooks and wire links.

20. Smoke-pipes having a horizontal length of four feet or over shall be securely hung from the ceiling-joists by strong wire supports spaced not more than six feet apart.

21. The clear distance between a smoke-pipe or metal breeching and combustible material or construction, including plaster on combustible base, shall be not less than eighteen inches in the case of low-heat appliances (bake-ovens, candy-furnaces, cooking-ranges, hot-air, hot-water, and small steam-heating furnaces and boilers), and not less than thirty-six inches in the case of medium or high-heat appliances (medium appliances being annealing-furnaces, smoke-houses, large steam-boilers; and high-heat appliances being blast-furnaces, welding-furnaces, porcelain baking and glazing kilns); provided that such clearances may be reduced one-half when such smoke-pipes or breechings are protected with not less than one inch of asbestos, or such combustible material or construction is protected by sheet metal or equivalent covering placed at least one inch from the surface to be protected and extending the full length of the smoke-pipe and not less than twelve inches beyond it on both sides; provided, however, that in the case of smoke-pipes used on ordinary heating or cooking stoves in private dwellings, such clearance shall be permitted to be not less than nine inches.

22. Smoke-pipes passing through partitions shall do so through a metal thimble set in brickwork in such a manner that there shall be not less than eight inches of brick between the thimble and the nearest woodwork. If the partition is of V-joint or other unplastered wood, it shall be further protected for a distance of not less than fifteen inches all around the pipe by sheet metal or asbestos board.

23. Smoke-pipes shall not pass through any floor, ceiling, cupboard, clothes-closet, locker, attic, or any other concealed space, nor shall they pass through any window or doorway or through any outside wall, unless through an approved corbelled breeching into a chimney built in full conformity with these regulations.

24. Smoke-pipes shall be examined regularly to ascertain that all joints and seams are tight-fitting, that all pipes are free from perforations, holes, or any other fault that would tend to permit the escape of sparks.

25. Every smoke-pipe shall enter the chimney at least four inches, and where it joins the chimney shall be equipped with a tight-fitting collar which fits snugly against the chimney, or the joint where the pipe enters the chimney flue opening shall be thoroughly sealed with furnace cement.

FURNACE CHAMBERS.

26. All heating plants in public buildings as defined in the "Fire Marshal Act" shall be installed in furnace chambers constructed as follows:

(a.) The floor of every furnace chamber shall be of masonry or concrete construction. The walls and ceiling of every furnace chamber shall be of masonry or concrete construction not less than eight inches in thickness, or shall be constructed of laminated wood not less than four inches in thickness (two-ply two-inch planks with all joints broken) covered with expanded metal lath and hard plaster or with one-half inch of gypsum or some equally fire-resistive material. In case of laminated-wood construction, the wall shall be not less than four feet distant from the furnace of the heating plant at the back and two sides, and not less than six feet distant from the front of the furnace; and the ceiling shall be not less than twenty inches above the top of the furnace.

(b.) Where there is a waterworks system available, there shall be installed a sprinkler system of not less than two sprinkler-heads so arranged as to protect the furnace chamber.

(c.) Standard Class "A" fire-doors with standard fire-door hardware shall be installed in all masonry or concrete furnace chambers, and Class "B" fire-doors with standard fire-door hardware shall be installed in all other furnace chambers. These doors shall be constructed in accordance with the specifications of what is known as the Underwriters' Standard of Construction for Tin-clad Doors.

(d.) Furnace chambers shall be furnished with adequate ventilation to permit complete combustion of the fuel used without any chance of back-fire or similar action.
